About the conference

Sustainable healthcare is of global importance. India is one of the world's most populous nation, that faces unique challenges and opportunities. With the increase in population and healthcare demands, there is a growing need for innovative and cost effective solutions to ensure quality healthcare delivery.

Nursing is the largest workforce in healthcare that offers specialized nursing services to alleviate the burden of chronic disease management. Specialized skill development for specific expertise is the need of the hour. Most of the chronic diseases can be focused and managed using evidence based practice to reduce complications.

Nurse led services have greater potential and opportunities to monitor healthcare outcome using an Interprofessional team approach, ensuring that the best efforts are made for treatment and care compliance. Thus nurse-led developments have gained momentum in India as a means to enhance the efficiency, effectiveness and sustainability of healthcare services.
